To Whom It May Concern,

I'm very happy to recommend Shawn Lee Jun An for EAE admission to the Polytechnic. I've had the pleasure of teaching him in the Higher Nitec in Accounting programme at ITE College Central, and I've found him to be a responsible, hardworking young man who genuinely cares about his learning and personal growth.

Throughout his studies, Shawn has approached his academic work with diligence and professionalism. He's punctual, respectful, and actively takes part in discussions. He takes feedback constructively and is always looking for ways to sharpen his knowledge and skills. His consistent effort has helped him build a solid understanding of accounting principles and how they apply in the real world.

He also gained valuable hands-on experience during his internship at Keydence Systems, where he supported both the finance and administrative teams. He helped prepare financial documents, performed data entry, maintained accurate records, and even contributed to process improvement initiatives. It was a great opportunity for him to see how accounting works in practice - and he took full advantage of it, learning the importance of accuracy, attention to detail, and professionalism along the way.

One of Shawn's most memorable experiences was representing ITE College Central in the Vietnam Student Exchange Programme. It wasn't just about visiting another country - he got to interact with students from a different culture and took part in charitable activities that opened his eyes to the importance of giving back. That experience broadened his perspective, boosted his confidence, and made him more comfortable connecting with people from all walks of life.

Shawn also has a heart for service. Through the Rotaract Club, he's been actively involved in initiatives like the Children's Day Celebration, National Day Observance Ceremony, Brushing Life community projects, and Project Sparkles by Hope Centre - where he helped clean homes and distribute essential food and drinks to residents in need. He gives his time freely and genuinely, and that says a lot about his character.

Before ITE, Shawn was in NPCC, where he attained the rank of Sergeant and played a part in helping his unit achieve both the Gold Unit Proficiency Award and Distinction Unit Award. Those experiences taught him discipline, teamwork, and how to lead by example, - qualities that are still very much part of who he is today.

I truly believe Shawn has what it takes to succeed in a polytechnic environment. His strong work ethic, practical experience, international exposure, leadership background, and commitment to serving others make him a well-rounded individual who will contribute meaningfully to any community he joins.

I fully recommend Shawn for the Early Admissions Exercise. I'm confident he'll make the most of every opportunity and continue to grow both academically and personally.

Yours sincerely,
